

OCTOBER 2011 NEWS

As last month our agenda was chock a block with activities, Our playroom is ready for our festivities, which included dancing, games, birthday cake, pass the parcel, balloons etc.

We played the traditional game of pass the parcel, my young crew didn't know the rules very well, but were able to pick it up quite rapidly (and the numerous birthday parties they've been involved) , as well as playing the freeze game following the music, they picked it up quite rapidly.

the kids had a few clues on our next activity, as I set up playroom as a fire station, farm animals, puppets, magazines, party games,.

We also celebrated children's week, there is no better way to start our month long celebrations than with a pyjama party, It was FANTASTIC to see how the kids stood up excited in front of their peers and described their pyjamas including their colour, picture and specially it's character and a visit to our local fire station, which is only a small stroll away from our premises. The kids were fascinated with the firemen, and their reflective uniforms, children had a go inside the fire truck, and you can tell that these firemen had previously handled small children at the premises, as they were well drilled on the art of maintaining children entertained for a period of time (included chasing them) as fire awareness can be started at a very young age (specially the hosing down of fires).

The last one but not less fun was kindifarm kids met all their favourite animals the baby sheep, duckling and piglets, kids had the opportunity to feed the sheep, baby lambs, they saw how farmer mixed the milk powder and give the milk bottle to the baby animals. Also all kids sat on a circle and wait for their turn to cuddle the chicks and ducklings and the bunnies. Really nice day
